

Dear

With the holidays fast approaching, how do you remember the people who are important to your business? It's that special time of year when acknowledging your clients, employees, and loved ones is so very important. Is there any reason why you wouldn't consider giving personalized gift baskets this holiday season? Would it be important for you to save time, avoid lines and get more for your gift dollar?

Let my Executive Gift Services free up your busy schedule by gift wrapping and delivering to your office at no extra charge. All of my gifts are professionally designed, wrapped and filled with products that will be appreciated, are pampering, and leave a lasting impression. My beautifully designed baskets are available at a range of prices to meet your needs. With such a wide price range you're sure to find that perfect gift for EVERYONE in your life!

I will be calling to discover if we might be of service and also to schedule an appointment to view these special gifts that say to others "you are important and appreciated".

Sincerely,
